Personal statement

I am a passionate software developer specializing in web and mobile application development. I have hands-on experience in both frontend and backend development, using technologies such as Java, Spring Boot, HTML/CSS, Vue.js, and Python. Beyond programming, I possess advanced skills in UI/UX design and am highly proficient in using Figma to create functional and aesthetically appealing prototypes. I enjoy combining technical expertise with creativity to build solutions that deliver exceptional user experiences. I am a collaborative, motivated individual who is always eager to learn new technologies and contribute to innovative and impactful projects.
